OCTOBER 2014

Dear Friends,

Our world and our lives seem to exist on a knife edge so often, don't you think? Today the sun shines. Tomorrow we could be battling against a flood. Today we are healthy and happy. Tomorrow might bring an accident or a difficult diagnosis for ourselves or a loved one.

It can feel like living on a knife edge when we look around the world too. Troubles seem to appear from nowhere and engulf whole nations or regions with a tidal wave of anxiety, want or warfare. Some peoples never seem to be far away from trouble, like those who live in Israel or Palestine. Others, like the peoples of Northern Iraq and Syria, find themselves running away from a nightmare of extremism and violence. And our hearts go out to the peoples of Central Africa as the Ebola virus rips through whole communities.

Our human instinct for survival kicks in and we do what we can to protect ourselves from all that may hurt or harm us and ours. This can include not watching the news too often! It can be so hard to watch and listen when it seems there is little we can do to help. When we feel stressed out and anxious it is natural to want to protect ourselves from even more worry.

How amazing that there are individuals who leave themselves unprotected and bravely go where they can give practical help or support. There are aid workers and health workers who risk their freedom and health to bring change and hope to desperate families in desperate situations all around the world. Back home, we can support aid workers by giving to charities who have projects in areas of need. We can share news and information with friends and neighbours. We can bring pressure on our government to change policies and practices. We can pray.

One great side-effect of this sort of involvement is that, as we start to see small changes, we begin to see that we really can change the world when we work together. We can tip the balance towards good and positive change, towards a world where freedom, peace and security for all is not a distant day dream, but something that we all play a part in achieving.

Jesus' people trust that God has a purpose for each of us. We are called out from behind our protective barricades to change the world for good, in whatever ways we are able. The knife edge of life does not become blunt. We still feel hurt and pain, our own and that of others, but we are given peace, healing and strength to overcome stress, anxiety and depression; and energy and enthusiasm to make real changes for good.

God bless you, and make you a blessing!

Janet

Anniversary Concert

St Peter's Singers, Peterborough

"With a voice of Singing"

After our successful summer choral concert with the Cecilian singers from Leicester, we now welcome a Peterborough choir. St Peter's Singers is a mixed chamber choir of 25 voices. They maintain strong links with the cathedral, having started originally by lay clerks, but membership is now open and includes Rev Andy Fyall, formerly minister at Radcliffe on Trent . After their summer concert at Grimsthorpe Castle, Lincolnshire, they make the journey to Radcliffe for our Autumn Choral Concert as part Anniversary Weekend.

The programme takes us on a choral tour of 16th and 17th century Europe with works by Palestrina (Italy) Victoria (Spain) Schutz (Germany) and Byrd (English) with pieces that are as delightful to hear, as they are to sing. An English section brings us closer to home with (Lincolnshire) and folk songs and other arrangements by Vaughan Williams, Holst and contemporary composers.

This concert is part of a series planned as part of our Regeneration Programme, which will involve the rebuilding of our church so that it can serve the whole village community.

Part of our plan is that the new worship area will have a good acoustic response to be suitable as a concert venue with up to 200 seats.

Tickets £8.00 including refreshments are available; proceeds to the Regeneration Fund. Starts at 7:30pm.

Tickets from Pen2Paper Main Street - Radcliffe

New YFC Keyworker

My name is Amy Davey, and I am the new key worker for South Nottinghamshire villages and for Radcliffe-on-Trent. I have also recently got married, so this is a very exciting time in my life as I begin a new adventure here in Nottingham in my ministry and in my marriage! So far I’ve spent a lot of time meeting lots of new people and getting very excited about how enthusiastic the local churches and schools are to work with young people. I have loved meeting some of the young people I'll be working with and I can't wait to meet many more over the coming weeks as we begin our journeys together! I'm so excited to be working in Radcliffe, and I want to thank all those who have made me feel so very welcome in recent weeks. I cannot wait to see what God has in store in Radcliffe over the next few weeks and months. God bless, Amy.

Traidcraft's new Justice campaign

Delivering justice for overseas victims of corporate human rights violations: what the next Government can do

The UK is the fifth biggest overseas investor in the world. Our companies are increasingly global, with a growing presence in developing countries. This gives them enormous power and influence.

Many companies behave responsibly, but some take decisions which result in mistreatment or even abuse of people overseas. These companies need to be held to account. And the people who have been harmed need justice. Justice may involve financial compensation, but also means putting things right and changing business practices to prevent future wrongs.

The next Government should remove the barriers that currently prevent victims of corporate abuse overseas receiving justice and take decisive measures to ensure companies who do violate human rights are held to account in the UK.

Please read the report detailing some of these injustices and sign the campaign postcards available on the Traidcraft stall or go online to www.traidcraft.co.uk/justicecampaign

Come On And Celebrate The National Month of Braille

The Royal National Institute of Blind People (RNIB) has declared October 2014 a national month to celebrate Braille.

In honour of Louis Braille's invention about 150 years ago, readers are invited by RNIB to "wear dots and raise lots", but the latter is not strictly necessary, especially for those fundraising for church projects.

Braille has 63 different combinations of dots. Each character is shown in a cell of 3 rows of 2 dots. In some cases one cell can represent a group of letters or a word.

Only 5% of the blind and partially sighted population reads Braille, however, visitors to services and Church Council meetings at Radcliffe-On-Trent Methodist Church will have, no doubt, discovered Braille is part of church life. Stewards Stuart and Lisa Jones use it to varying levels; Stuart for prayer notes and for Lisa it is central to her life. With Lisa's help Radcliffe Methodist Church will have a few small activities/displays to mark RNIB's National Month to celebrate Braille.

Lisa is an accredited Braille teacher and one of 12 founder members of the UK association for Accessible Formats* and would be very pleased to come to any church to help with a belated celebration of the National Month to celebrate Braille.

* Accessible Formats are those used by people with print impairments to access standard print, eg audio CD/Cassette, email attachment, large print, etc.

From Michael Rose: Just to let you know I completed my bike ride for Water Aid on Friday 8th and Saturday 9th August. Due to some wrong turns and dodgy directions on national cycle network route 6 I ended up a little off track around Luton and Dunstable and again around Milton Keynes - adding about 15 miles so the total distance ended up at 152 miles. I have raised £1475 (including Gift Aid) which will be matched pound for pound by the UK Government - so many thanks for your kind donation which will make a big difference to the people supported by Water Aid. Well done, Michael.
